Anti-War Protest Marches Down Michigan Avenue

Cover Story- On the 3rd anniversary of the continuing genocide campaign in Gaza, marchers demanded freedom for Palestine and an end to and accountability for the war crimes Israel has been carrying out with U.S. partnership.

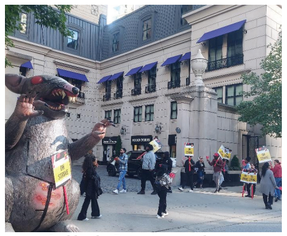

The Lancet has estimated over 250,,000 Palestinians killed in Gaza, half being children. Now over 40,000 killed Lebanon and millions displaced with Israel levelling towns and all civilian infrastructure in the territory they entered.

Please Don't Come to Chicago

If you visit Chicago soon, you may not be able to find a clean room. Staff at downtown hotels are on strike. Who knows how long that will last?

Represented by Unite Here Local 1, thousands of cooks, cleaners, clerks, and other crew members walked off the job after months of negotiations before contracts expired. Fortunately for visitors, the union has created a website to show which hotels are in trouble. Find out at chicagotravelalert.org

Running Down The Walls Brings Political Prisoner Solidarity at Metropolitan Correctional Center, Attacked by Police

On September 19, the Anarchist Black Cross Federation (ABCF) held the annual Running Down the Walls (RDTW) non-competitive 5K marathon and fundraiser event. Each year people hit the concrete both inside and outside prisons for a collective run, walk, roll and march towards freedom for political prisoners and the abolition of prisons and to raise funds for the ABCF Warchest which puts money on the books of political prisoners/prisoners of war to help with commissary, communications and other financial needs. This year Running Down The Walls events were held in Los Angeles CA, Bloomington IN, Philadelphia PA, Brooklyn NY, Kingston NY, Ft Lauderdale FL, Lowell MA, Eugene OR and Chicago IL.

This year's Chicago RDTW descended upon the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center (MCC), a brutalist downtown skyscraper. In addition to the rally and marathon we planned a generator show with bands and DJs blasting punk, hip hop, and techno right outside the prison walls so the people held inside can enjoy, dance along with us, and know we got their back.

As people took to the plaza hanging banners and setting up tables for zines and food, almost immediately the Chicago Police Department arrived and began intimidating the crowd with threats of arrest and violence over the unpermitted gathering and the mobile soundsystem. Of course we never need or seek permission from the state to gather in public, but the MCC and the park in front of it is federal property under the proclaimed jurisdiction of the Bureau of Prisons (BOP). After resisting the initial barrage of police threats and reclaiming the park, the rally began defiantly reading the statements and recordings that political prisoners prepared for the event.

Champagne Song called in to read their statement, reminding us that we are a sea that is unstoppable, that we will win!

We continued with statements from Oso Blanco, Peppy, and Bill Dunne that running down these walls is an act of radical solidarity with tangible material consequences for those inside. Dwayne "BIM 365" Staats from the Vaughn 17 uprising requested we play his recently released single "Liberation the new High", speakers blasting revolutionary music from behind bars to the chagrin of the police who remained circled around the plaza.

After closing the rally out, dozens began the 5K's first lap around MCC marching together behind the "Running Down The Walls" banner, mobile soundsystem blasting. Returning to the plaza in front of MCC, the rest of the marathon kicked off with a countup to "Fuck 12" and completed the run in small groups and individuals finishing the remaining six laps of the 5K. Throughout the evening participants could hear people from inside MCC loudly rapping on their thin windows echoing down to the street and plaza below below while others flashed their cell lights.

As the DJ set kicked off, the crowd grew despite some rain. Several dozen CPD began amassing and threatening the crowd again: after a police lieutenant proclaimed that any musician who performed would have their equipment confiscated and risk arrest, a heated debate was held with regard to the volume of a keyboard in a last ditch effort to save the show, but the white shirts were not budging. As they aggressively tried intruding, participants formed a line and linked arms to protect the space; bouncy techno continued loudly from the mobile sound system. The impasse stabilized a bit or so we thought as the white shirts were now saying the level of sound still playing was acceptable; still, people began considering a backup plan to move the show to a well-known outdoor show spot, however, the cops were making plans of their own.

Without warning, two groups of cops flanked from the side and the back of the park grabbing the mobile sound system, beginning a tug-of-war that drew more people in from all sides until a full-blown cop moshpit ensued. Dozens of cops, outnumbered, quickly tired themselves out and pulled back, eventually satisfying themselves with arresting four people they targeted during the fracas – though the courageous efforts of those in the front helped to prevent many others from being snatched up. People stood up to the cops and chanted "FREE THEM ALL!", raising the spirits of the comrades held in the dozens of police cars and trucks lighting up the spectacle in front of the federal jail.

As the dust was settling, the rain started pouring, and people checked in on each other, gathered the gear and organized jail support. All arrestees were out within 24 hours, but four still face a misdemeanor resisting arrest charge.

Especially now, the underground must surface make a stand and take action. As "Riot Fest" festival gentrifiers were destroying Douglass Park, the real riot fest goes down when punks seek no permits, take the pit to the streets and fight the system. For the destruction of prison society! Free all political prisoners! Free them all!

Racist Kidnappings Continue

State and local police continue to protect ICE and Border Patrol's fascist roundups. Frequent violent attacks and use of chemical weapons by police have caused protestors to don protective gear and try new tactics. If you see ICE make some noise! Protect your neighbors!

Anti-War Veterans Form Speakers Bureau

A group of U.S. war veterans has come together to share their experiences with youth and students so they can make informed decisions about their future.

They say "We are allies to the youth and patriots standing true to our oath to the U.S. Constitution. We beleive duty goes beyond military service and extends to our communities at home. Military service should not be incentivised by poverty or access to education."

Stolen Land and Colonization

Saturday, November 14 at 2:00 p.m.

Edgewater Branch Library - 6000 N. Broadway
Betty A. Barclay Community Room

November is Native American Heritage Month. Les Begay, Diné, founder of the Indigenous Peoples Day Coalition will discuss how the United States government used their laws to steal Native land and to erase Native people and their culture. To this day the US government continues to ignore Native treaties and sovereignty. Les has held lectures on various aspects of Native history in high school and college classrooms, at the Edgewater Library, and previously at the Edgewater Historical Society.

October is Co-op Month

A message from Five Point Holistic Health*

You may have heard that Five Point is a worker co-op, but what does that really mean? Our business is owned and controlled by the people who work in it. Unlike traditional business models, all workers have an opportunity to become owners in order to share in the overall success of the business, participate in business operations and influence future direction.

Profits aren't diverted to wealthy executives or investors; instead they are either invested back into the business or distributed amongst the worker owners. The interests of our workers, our patients, and our community always come before profits.

Cooperative business models help counterbalance the growing income inequality that is perpetuated by capitalism, which has major economic, social, environmental, and political consequences. Co-ops follow a set of principles that ensure the entity follows the values of self-help, self-responsibility, democracy, equality, equity, and solidarity.

We encourage you to support your local co-ops this month and every month such as Dill Pickle Food Co-op, Sputnik Press, Blue Tin Production, ChiFresh Kitchens, New Era Windows, Comrade Cycles, Chicago Honey Co-op, and many more!

Albania in Revolt

Student rebellions in several European countries and Argentina have seen some serious street battles lately. People are resisting police repression.

In Albania in addition to the problems in education and the economy angering students, there has been widespread anger at the government over corruption and in particular the scandal over Jared Kushner bribing officials so they would let him take over an Albanian island. People had already had huge demonstrations for weeks, rioted and burned down a government official's house.

Now they are burning and sacking more government buildings and other targets. There are pitched street battles with paving stones, molotov cocktails and fireworks taking flight.

Dr. Roland Griffiths portrait painted by Alex Grey is on view in the Psychedelic Reliquary at Entheon.

Esteemed psychopharmacologist Dr. Roland Griffiths passed away October 16. His psilocybin studies over the last twenty years helped to re-establish the medical and mystical significance of psychedelic substances. He was a scrupulous well regarded scientist whose reliance on data over hyperbole and gentle demeanor convinced many colleagues and the general public of the significance of psilocybin and led to the founding of the Center for Psychedelic and Consciousness Research at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. Rest in peace Dr. Griffiths.

School of the Americas (SOA) Watch

SOA Watch Virtual Vigil Sunday, November 15th, 2PM

November 16th marks 37 years since 6 Jesuit priests and two women were martyred in El Salvador by U.S. backed forces, a history that gave rise to the SOAW movement and continues to shape struggles across Central America today. The perpetrators were trained at the School of the Americas (now renamed) in Ft. Benning, GA.

Join us as we remember the 6 priests— Ignacio Ellacuría, Ignacio Martín-Baró, Segundo Montes, Amando López, Juan Ramón Moreno, and Joaquín López y López—along with their housekeeper, Elba Ramos, and her 16-year-old daughter, Celina. From Mexico, to El Salvador, to Honduras, communities continue to confront militarization, displacement, criminalization, and the ongoing fight for land, justice, and self-determination.

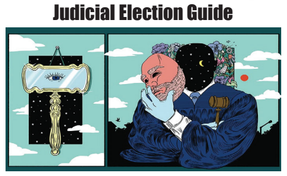

This year, we'll gather to remember the martyrs - known and unknown, hear from movements on the frontlines, and strengthen our commitment to international solidarity from the belly of the beast.

This vigil serves as a space for remembrance and a collective embrace of art, love, and activism. Featured in our program are these talented members of the SOAW Musicians Collective.

FRENCH INSURRECTION

10/13/2026, France- Incredible scenes in Paris today as secondary school students and their supporters marched in vast numbers from Hotel de Ville to Esplanade des Invalides. Yet again there was an impressive level of organisation with water, tear gas treatment and breathing protection being handed out for free along with teams of highly professional street medics to treat the wounded.

There was an inevitable confrontation with the Gendarmes at the end where they deployed insane amounts of tear gas along with a water cannon.

Lots of younger trade union members joined the protest and used their skills to keep their members and others safe. Sadly their leadership opted to organise a much smaller solidarity protest at a separate location in the the city.

Organisers estimate that over 500k people joined around 100 marches which happened across the country. The Gilets Jaunes (Yellow Vests) have called a nationwide protest this coming Saturday along with the students which could well turn the heat up even further.

Figures vary but it seems that over 1,000 schools are closed by militant action by students supported by staff. Conditions in education here have become intolerable with complaints ranging from staff shortages, non-existent facilities, crumbling buildings, flooding and even rats running around the classrooms and corridors. -G.S.

Early morning at the barricades. In response to the violent police state assaults on protestors, improvised barricades have been erected to try to impede the attacks. Repression against the students brought out other sectors of the population in solidarity to defend them.

Humanity Against the Genocide

Around the world, from October 3-11, millions of people participated in actions to mark the third anniversary of the Palestinian Resistance's Operation Al Aqsa Flood. With these actions the world's peoples reaffirmed that In Our Millions, in Our Billions, We Are All Palestinians! They called for an end to the U.S./Israeli genocide against Palestinians and an end to the Israeli zionist occupation. They held their governments to account for complicity with Israel.

On October 10 activists marched as one in some sixty countries with more than 260 marches, rallies, blockades and vigils.

The resistance of the Palestinian people is not only just but also necessary. For the heroic Palestinian people the Resistance builds their identity as a people who will not bow down to the use of extreme violence and acts of obliteration that the U.S. government and their partners in crime are unleashing.

In Canada marches and rallies took place in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Kitchener, Edmonton, Vancouver and in many other communities. Actions denounced the government of Canada's continued complicity in aggression against Gaza, Lebanon, Iran and Yemen under the hoax that they stand for rule of law against terrorism and extremism.

An estimated 250,000 people marched in London, England, demanding that the British government stop supplying arms to Israel and expressing solidarity with the struggle of the Palestinian people for an end to the occupation and the complete liberation of Palestine.

A million man march in Sana'a, Yemen on October 9

Thousands rallied in Dublin, Ireland and in Edinburgh, Scotland.

In Paris where the students have been in action defending their rights the protest organized by Urgence Palestine collective was banned, but students found ways to make their stand in support of Palestine known.

Huge marches across Italy announce another general strike for Palestine on October 30.

Marches and demonstrations were held across Europe.

There were rallies and marches in many countries in Latin America.

In west Asia there were massive demonstrations in many cities in Yemen, including a million person march on October 9 in Sana'a, in solidarity with the people of Palestine and to announce a general mobilization against Saudi attacks on the Yemeni resistance. In Morocco there were over 30 actions. As well there were marches in Istanbul and other cities in Türkiye and Karachi, Pakistan.

In Seoul, South Korea, there were several actions starting on October 3 and culminating on October 11 with protests near the U.S. and Israeli embassies. In Tokyo, Japan there were actions during the week including a demonstration on October 7 under the banner Stop Israel's Ethnic Cleansing of Palestine!

Large marches took place on both October 7 and 10 in Capetown, South Africa. In Oceania there were marches and rallies across Australia and in New Zealand.

In addition to the rallies and marches, com munity, cultural and educational programs took place from film screenings in Nigeria and commemorative vigils in the Democratic Republic of Congo to student-led educational activities in Trinidad and Tobago, to days of actions in Kuala Lumpur.

And there were important demonstrations across the U.S., including in Chicago.

Iran Stands

Iranian forces pounded many of the U.S. bases in the middle east with drones and missles in response to the unprovoked U.S. and Israeli bombing campaign against them.

The U.S. has inflicted a lot of damage and killed many Iranian civilians, recklessly if not intentionally. They responded by causing billion$ in damage to U.S. military infrastructure including radar and ports vital to naval resupply. Thay have inflicted serious damage to Israel that it is illegal there to disclose. They still dominate the Straight of Hormus, constricting global energy supply. Iran is not rolling over for Trump.

National Day of Mourning

Since 1970, Indigenous people & their allies have gathered at noon on Cole's Hill in Plymouth to commemorate a National Day of Mourning on the US Thanksgiving holiday. Many Native people do not celebrate the arrival of the Pilgrims & other European settlers. Thanksgiving Day is a reminder of the genocide of millions of Native people, the theft of Native lands and the erasure of Native cultures.

Participants in National Day of Mourning honor Indigenous ancestors and Native resilience. It is a day of remembrance and spiritual connection, as well as a protest against the racism and oppression that Indigenous people continue to experience worldwide. National Day of Mourning-

CANADIAN OIL GIANT ENBRIDGE BUILDS UNAUTHORIZED PIPELINE BYPASS FOLLOWING 1.3 MILLION GALLON SPILL

Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) repeatedly requested Enbridge keep its Line 5 pipeline shut down following the largest oil and gas spill in state history on Aug. 25. Enbridge defied the requests. Without receiving the required permits, it built a new pipeline to bypass the rupture and restarted Line 5's operations.

Enbridge's actions raise serious questions about the state's ability to regulate large, multinational corporations and its willingness to enforce its permits.

Bad River Tribal Chair Liz Arbuckle asked DNR officials if the permits meant anything at all: "What are the consequences if they are violated?"

Arbuckle said the DNR representatives gave evasive responses. They told tribal leaders they are continuing to work with Enbridge in the permitting process. The DNR would not answer whether they would issue Enbridge retroactive permits for the bypass work.

DNR Sec. Karen Hyun and Wisconsin Gov. Tony Evers have criticized Enbridge's conduct, but so far they have stopped short of meaningful enforcement action, such as revoking permits or taking legal action.

In a Sept. 9 letter to Enbridge, Hyun said that Enbridge has a growing list of environmental harms and permit violations, "demonstrating disregard for the environment, human health, and the statutory authority of the department." Hyun said Enbridge's Line 5 reroute permit violations have caused "continued frustration and profound unease" for state officials and the people of Wisconsin.

People living near the pipeline have been unsatisfied with the DNR's construction oversight. Bad River Tribal Member Joe Bates and others have taken it upon themselves to keep an eye on things and make sure that spills and violations are promptly reported. It is worth noting that Bates' drone footage of the spill made international headlines.

Enbridge's spill site bypass required state permits to cross streams and wetlands. The DNR did not approve the work. Enbridge blocked state officials from accessing the rupture site for weeks, citing safety concerns. When the DNR got access to the site, the bypass was under construction.

Honor the Treaties Camp

A camp hosted by Annishinaabeg aunties and grandmas who are practicing treaty rights is set up to resist the Line 5 oil pipeline. They are calling for more water protectors, warriors and local community to show up to camp to practice treaty rights and join in ceremony and action together. "Please come self-sufficient and prepared to share your gifts and talents. We are currently getting ready for the weather to drop and humbly request donations for camp."

Tiny Fair Trade Museum Turns Two

The worlds first fair trade museum has survived two years on the rough streets of Uptown, Broadway and Leland specifically. This corner storefront's exhibits tell us the stories of sweatshops and plantations, fast fashion and mountains of textile waste, exploitation of people and the planet.

Can we humans produce goods and services without brutal exploitation of the people and the planet? Sure! This museum shows us some of the alternatives.

Workers organizing for better conditions, communities organizing to protect the environment. And the developement of cooperative organizational structures, democractically run enterprises. Workers and farmers, weavers and tailors, artisans and craftspersons organizing themselves to operate cooperative farms, processors and manufacturing operations all organized horizontally using egalitarian principles.

And a distribution network that brought their products from all around the world to consumers in the US and Europe. Some of that network had grown out of the peace and solidarity movements.

In the late 1970s the Nicaraguan revolution overthrew the dictator Somosa and redistributed the land he and his cronies had been claiming. New farmer cooperatives formed and grew coffee and bananas, etc. The U.S. embargoed and blockaded the country, even mining the harbors. (The CIA also hired mercenaries called Contras to murder health care workers, farmers and teachers in the border areas to terrorize the population.)

In solidarity with the Nicaraguans, peace activists started smuggling coffee into the U.S. and selling it to support the farmers.

Since then networks of like minded folks have carried on the struggle. They established standards to evaluate suppliers and processes for distribution. A Fair Trade Movement formed internationally.

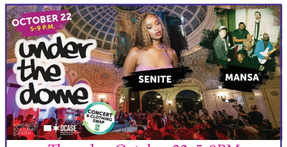

Chicago Fair Trade is a coalition that increases support for economic and environmental justice through consumer education, advocacy, and promotion of fair trade businesses.

They established the museum as part of the education work. Of course they do have a gift shop where you can buy Palestinian olive oil and cooperatively picked tea. You can visit for free at 4704 N. Broadway. They are open Wednesdays through Saturdays, 12-5PM.

Rehearsing the Future: The Thought and Practice of James and Grace Lee Boggs

James and Grace Lee Boggs famously implored us to "change ourselves to change the world." But what are we to make of their far-reaching philosophy of social change, which they called dialectical humanism? How might we continue to learn with and from the Boggses today?

Join us as we welcome Under the Tree Podcast to celebrate the release of Michael Doan's new book, Rehearsing the Future: The Thought and Practice of James and Grace Lee Boggs. The discussion will be facilitated by Bill Ayers, renowned activist, engaged scholar, and author of numerous books on social justice and education.

Rehearsing the Future explores the work and legacy of James and Grace Lee Boggs, two of the most influential American radical thinkers of the twentieth century. Grace Lee Boggs earned a PhD in philosophy in the 1940s, though facing obstacles to an academic career as a young Chinese American woman, she left and became a political organizer in Detroit, where she met and married James Boggs, a Black autoworker and labor organizer from Alabama who had moved North during the Great Migration.

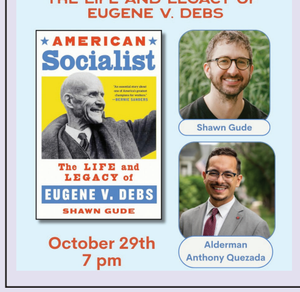

Over the course of more than forty years of partnership and participation in labor, civil rights, Black Power, anticolonial, and feminist movements, the Boggses articulated a philosophy of long-term revolutionary strategy they called "dialectical humanism." Rejecting state socialism and traditional Marxism, dialectical humanism instead attributes social change to the conscious, collective activity of people engaged in place-based organizing with a view to transforming everyday life, with hallmark projects such as community gardens, daycare networks, and mediation programs. Above all, revolution is not a fixed program but must evolve as ideas, movements, and institutions are changed through collective practice.

Through their life work and publications, James and Grace Lee Boggs modeled how to do philosophy from within movements. In Rehearsing the Future, Michael Doan lays out the intellectual history of dialectical humanism, the far-reaching theory and practice that continues to guide movement-building around the world, inspiring forms of activism such as visionary organizing and emergent strategy. This book is for scholars and activists interested in the theoretical underpinnings of today's community movements.

Michael D. Doan is a Canadian born father, educator, activist, and philosopher. He joined the James and Grace Lee Boggs Center to Nurture Community Leadership in 2016 and is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Oakland University.

Reading the World: Paulo Freire in Angicos

In 1963, global icon Paulo Freire led an experimental project teaching hundreds of rural farmers to read, write and vote in Brazil, until he was arrested and forced into exile during a U.S.-backed coup d'état.

Told through the collective memories of farmers, students, and educators who participated in the "Culture Circles," where they learned to read and write in 40 hours, Reading the World contains rare archival footage of 1960s Brazil that was recently recovered after being buried for decades. The innovative teaching method used critical and creative thinking instead of memorization and repetition. By contextualizing and personalizing the lessons, educators used their surroundings to teach vocabulary and construct meaning. Hundreds of Brazilians became literate and were allowed to vote as a consequence, strengthening the blossoming democracy and social movement that was disrupting the colonial structures. After a shocking coup d'état, the farmers' notebooks were set on fire, and Freire was eventually forced into exile for 16 years, spreading his pedagogy around the globe and impacting democracy and education until today. Today Freire is considered one of the most influential philosophers of education in the twentieth century, and revered by educators.

Solidarity Over Surveillance

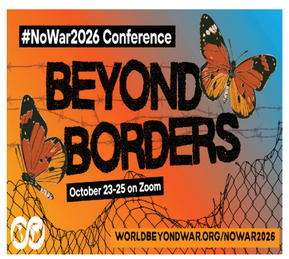

A Just Chi's October General Meeting with @FreePressAction on Wednesday, October 21st from 6-7:30pm over Zoom! Free Press Action will join us for a teach-in about Solidarity Over Surveillance: a hub for individuals, communities and organizations to join the fight against corporate and government-sponsored surveillance.

They're fighting to:

- Stop data brokers from selling our most sensitive information to law enforcement;
- Protect dissent, privacy and anonymity in an age of AI-powered surveillance;
- Empower people to use open-records requests to expose their local and state governments' surveillance partnerships;
- Challenge the government's weaponization of domestic-terrorism powers; and
- Fight the inevitability of AI everywhere.
